

THOUSANDS OF JEWS ARE DEAD

Announcement Of Prominent St. Petersburg Man Places The Total Very High.

HELD PARADE IN CITY OF WARSAW

Two Thousand Poles Were In Line In A Demonstration For Freedom From The Russian Tyranny.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—An official who is a liberal this morning said: "The attempt to fasten the responsibility of the Jewish massacres upon the Bureau of the Russian Empire is unsatisfactory. The whole Russian nation is to blame. Everyone in Russia regards a Jew as his legitimate prey. When the full reports are in it will be shown that between thirty and forty thousand Jews were killed or injured, while not a voice was raised in protest in all Russia and not even an authoritative word was said in condemnation. This fact is more horrible than the massacres themselves and presents the doubt that the Russian people are capable of governing themselves. The Jews cannot gain freedom under a liberal government unless they fight for it as liberals are fighting the autocracy."

All Quiet Today
Odessa, Nov. 6.—All is quiet today and business was resumed. Ships are loading.

Normal Aspect
Helsingfors, Nov. 6.—The strike has ended in this city and business is assuming its normal aspect.

Burned The Peasants
Berlin, Nov. 6.—A dispatch says in the Russian village of Jedonovograd a thousand peasants gathered to discuss politics and the prefect, being unable to suppress the meeting, approved of the Cossacks igniting the buildings and only two hundred, escaped by a single narrow exit.

Warsaw, Nov. 6.—Great patriotic demonstrations were held in the streets Sunday by crowds estimated at 200,000 persons. Processions headed by clergy and singing "God Save Poland," paraded the principal streets, which were elaborately decorated. The balconies and windows of the houses were filled with spectators. A citizen guard kept exemplary order, and the military massed in the side streets had no occasion to interfere. An attempt by the Russian loyalists to organize a procession was a complete failure, barely 500 persons taking part in it.

Jewish Militia on Guard.
A Jewish militia, armed with revolvers, is guarding Jewish houses in the outskirts of the city. The militia shot and killed four disguised detectives found trying to provoke disturbances.

The governor has warned the Polish newspapers that unless they submit to the censorship their offices would be closed. Two papers, persisting in their disregard of the order, have been shut up and sealed by the troops. The houses of all Polish nationalists were illuminated Sunday night.

The funerals of the victims of the disorders at Lodz were attended by 40,000 persons. There were revolutionary speeches, but no disorder.

Trepoff Forbids Gathering.
St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—The great demonstration which had been arranged to be held Sunday in honor of all who have fallen in the revolution was abandoned. The city was placarded with a notice signed by Gen. Trepoff stating that political demonstrations would not be allowed in the present disturbed state of affairs when one section of the population was ready to rise in arms against the other.

Consequently the leaders of the workmen decided to abandon their plan, but a meeting was held at which resolutions were adopted declaring that the peaceful intentions of the St.

Petersburg workmen have called to their feet all the representatives of the decadent autocracy. Gen. Trepoff forebodes possible attacks by bands of roughs, and blood again may flow in the streets of St. Petersburg. In view of this plan, showing the value to be attached to promises that have been made and manifestoes issued, the council of delegates announced that the proletariat of St. Petersburg will give the government the last fight not on the day chosen by Gen. Trepoff, but when it is "convenient for a few armed and organized people."

Call People to Standard.
The abandonment of parade did not become known generally and vast orderly crowds mostly dressed in mourning, gathered in the public places, with the intention of participating in the demonstration or sympathizing with the widows. The balconies were crowded with spectators. At noon a council of delegates went to the different centers and announced the decision to abandon the demonstration, asking the people to return to their homes quietly and not afford a pretext to the authorities to resort to force.

The council also appealed for support until all revolutionists were armed for a rising, which, they declared, soon would come and leave Russia a republic. The crowds then dispersed. It is generally felt that the leaders acted wisely for the interests of the revolutionary party, the prospects of which they did not wish to endanger by hasty action. The abandonment was not intended and was not regarded as a surrender.

The council's control of the workmen was strong enough to inspire confidence that its members will re-establish a strike whenever it is most opportune to paralyze the country, following this by a call to arms when the time is ripe. That preparations for such a call are going on is unquestionable.

Would Overthrow Bureaucracy.
The aim will be completely to overthrow the bureaucracy, including Count de Witte and all his friends. The revolutionary leaders and 7,000,000 strikers who, at their bidding, held up the government and the commerce of the empire for two weeks, are more determined to do this than to obtain a parliamentary system.

Although the granting of the constitution momentarily demoralized the bureaucracy, they are still an enormously powerful obstructive resistance, and the national chaos they can produce before their downfall is the blackest danger now facing Russia. There are signs that the army in the provinces will side with the proletariat against the bureaucracy.

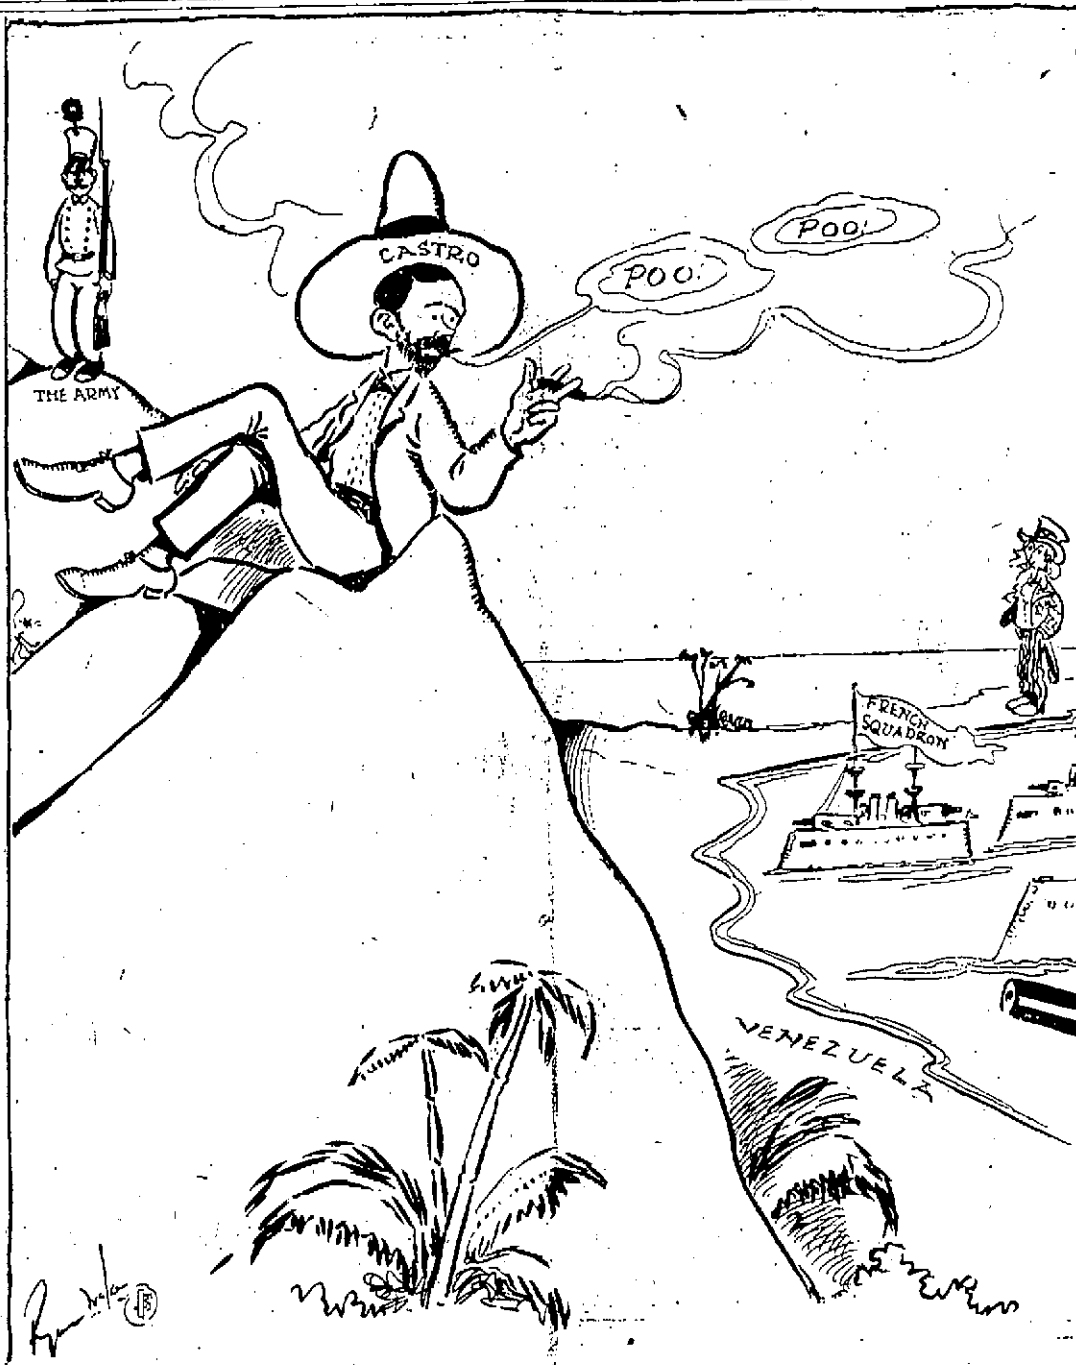

The chief independent reformers, including Prince Eugene Troubetzkoi and Count Ourouloff, whom Count de Witte asked to join his cabinet, have refused to accept office. His list now mostly consists of his former official proteges.

John Roeder, of Bloomington, Ill., widely known as "Holy" John, through his charity and efforts in behalf of the wanderers and homeless, and also his great piety, killed himself with a revolver yesterday because of ill health.

Mme. Bernhardt will fulfill a thirty weeks' engagement under the direction of the Shuberts.

Mrs. Rogers' Appeal.
Washington, Nov. 6.—The case of Mrs. Mary Rogers, convicted in 1903 at Bennington, Vermont, of murdering her husband, was brought before the Supreme Court today for argument. Mrs. Rogers takes her appeal as a pauper and the expense of the case will be borne by the government.

Missionary Rally.
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 6.—One of the greatest church rallies ever held in the United States began here today under the Protestant churches of the State, in connection with the general Presbyterian missionary movement inaugurated here November 2. The object of the campaign is to interest people throughout the country in the importance of increased work throughout the world. The campaign is being conducted under the personal supervision of Mrs. David McConough, secretary of the Presbyterian work in the United States.

SWORN EVIDENCE IS WANTED OF MORGAN

Italian General Consul at New York Asked to Find Out Who Sold Stolen Canvas.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Nov. 6.—The Italian general consul here today received a request from Ascoli, Piacenza, Italy, to take sworn evidence of Mr. J. P. Morgan and of Dr. Rovelli, secretary of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, with a view to discovering the original vendor of the Nicholas IV. cope, which it will be remembered, was purchased by Mr. Morgan and generally restored by him to Italy when he learned that it had been stolen. It is stated upon the best authority that Mr. Morgan will have nothing to do with the matter, considering the incident closed when he returned the Ascoli cope.

ALFONSO'S MISSION IS NOT POLITICAL

Is Spain No Longer a Power in European Affairs?—Commercial Treaties Probable Purpose.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, Nov. 6.—King Alfonso of Spain, accompanied by Premier Rios, and suite, arrived here today for a week's visit. He was received at the station by representatives of Emperor William and the Foreign office, the Spanish Ambassador and members of the Embassy here. A most elaborate state and social program has been arranged for the entertainment of King Alfonso. It is stated positively that Alfonso's visit has no political significance. Certain high officials bluntly state that Spain is no longer a factor in the development of European affairs, and the only political benefit that may be derived from the visit might be the possibility of obtaining certain treaties which would mean more to Spain than any ally. More credence is given to the report that he comes on a matrimonial mission, especially in the light of recent reports that all chance of his securing the hand of Princess Ena of Battenberg in marriage have been dispelled.

TO ASCERTAIN THE EXACT RELATIONS

New York Stockholders in Missouri Oil Companies To Be Examined by Attorney General.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Nov. 6.—Herbert L. Hadley, attorney general of the State of Missouri, began taking testimony in this city today in the matter of the endeavor of the commonwealth of Missouri to restrain the Standard Oil company, the Waters-Pierce Oil company and the Republic Oil company from co-operating in their business in that state. Attorney General Hadley has been preparing this case for some months, and has been engaged for several weeks in examining witnesses in St. Louis and other places in Missouri. The State of Missouri, which is prosecuting the case against the oil companies, maintains that the latter, in violation of the law, have not been competitors in the business of refining and selling oil, but have, in restraint of trade, been acting in harmony and have been dividing the profits. Attorney General Hadley has announced his intention of summoning all the officers of the Standard Oil company and the most prominent of its stockholders, residents here, to endeavor to secure testimony in regard to the relations, if any, that may exist between the Standard corporation and the others mentioned.

PLAN TO CALL THREE COUNTIES TOGETHER

Question of Endorsement of Candidates for Circuit Judgeship To Be Discussed.

It has been decided to call a joint meeting of the bar associations of Rock, Green and Jefferson counties to discuss candidates for the judgeship of the twelfth judicial district, which is comprised by these counties. It is understood that this step has been taken upon the decision of many members of the bar of these counties who dislike the idea of becoming pledged to some one candidate without a general consultation of the attorneys interested in the decision. Thus far Judge Dunwiddie, the present presiding judge, and Judge Fifield of the municipal court of this city are the only two avowed candidates but it is stated by friends of Judge Sale, of the probate court, that he will become a candidate if endorsed by the bar association. Petitions calling for the joint meeting are being circulated today.

ALEXANDER IS A WRECKED MAN

Head Of The Equitable Sacrificed All For What He Thought Was The Right.

SOUGHT TO CLEAR HIS CONSCIENCE

Told His Associates That Their Millions Might Save Them, But That He Would Not Survive The Trying Ordeal To Come.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Nov. 6.—In a sermon preached by Rev. Dr. H. A. Stimpson at the Manhattan Congregational church, Sunday the facts concerning the precipitation of the Equitable war and the underlying motives were made public for the first time. "A dozen or more insurance financiers were assembled in a room just prior to the exposure of the affairs of the Equitable Life," said Dr. Stimpson. "Its president, James W. Alexander, stood before them and pleaded for a change of method, announcing the course he proposed to take in case of their refusal. He could endure existing conditions no longer. They said: 'It will ruin you,' and he replied: 'I know it. There is a saying of the ancients that we should let the man who has fewest years to live be sacrificed. I am the oldest man present. You, with your millions, may weather the storm. I shall go upon the rocks, but my conscience will be clear.'"

Knew It Meant Ruin.

This is the first hint given the public that Alexander fully realized before he inaugurated the fight for the mutualization of the society the stupendous consequences that would follow, not only to the insurance world, but to himself. Mr. Alexander has gone upon the rocks. To-day he is broken irretrievably in body. He is all but hopelessly broken in mind. He is broken in fortune. His family name, which he revered above all things, and which since long before the revolutionary war was synonymous with honesty, integrity, fair dealing, and uprightness; has been assailed and tarnished.

Until recently Mr. Alexander had been at Oneonta in the Catskills, where he was taken by his family early in July. A few days ago he was moved to a sanitarium at Deerfield, Mass., where he now is. His lawyers, including William B. Hornblower, Adrian H. Joline, William D. Guthrie, Bainbridge Colby, William N. Cohen, and Charles E. Hughes, now counsel for the legislative in the case.

Mr. Alexander in his retreat knows nothing about the victory his friends claim for the principle for which he made so many sacrifices. Not a word about business matters has been spoken to him since early in July. No newspapers have been shown him. The doctors say he has lost the power of physical recuperation. So slender is the remaining hold of his intellect upon reason that the most acute care is taken to protect what is left.

KENTUCKY GUARDS HUNT FOR MURDERER

Militiamen Spend Sunday in the Mountains in Effort to Capture Leader of Desperate Gang.

Middleboro, Ky., Nov. 6.—A reign of terror exists here that threatens to rival in violence the bloody feuds of Breathitt county. The Middleboro militia company spent Sunday afternoon in the mountains after a lawless gang, said to be headed by Frank Ball, wanted for the murder of John Bolen, a barber.

Ball is reported to have with him a crowd of at least forty men, who intend to resist his arrest to the last.

Four miles from Middleboro the soldiers attacked a "blind tiger," and riddled it with steel bullets, although they succeeded in capturing nine of the men. Returning to town, roll call of the company showed the absence of three men, whose whereabouts are not known.

The town is comparatively quiet, but all telegraph wires have been cut and the only news that can get out is by telephone. Gov. Beckham has been asked to send more soldiers and another company is expected, as the local militiamen are worn out by constant duty. The Middleboro company is in charge of Capt. George W. Albrecht, a leading citizen, who up to September last was editor of the Middleboro News.

Secrecy is preserved by both citizens and soldiers and a telegraph operator has been warned not to send out news of the disturbance.

Divorce Actions: In circuit court have been commenced divorce actions by Mrs. Nellie A. Rader of Jamesville against her husband, Frank A. Rader, and by Mrs. Bessie A. Bartlett of Beloit against her husband, Charles K. Bartlett. Decrees have been granted Myrtle Bidwell in her action against George Bidwell; Grace A. Barnes in her action against W. Herbert Barnes; and LaCourt Coll in his action against Martha E. Coll. The parties to the two last-named actions are Beloit people.

Marriage Licenses: Applications for marriage licenses have been filed by Frank Eagan and Maria Neeham, both of Magnolia; and Hans A. Jergenson of Stoughton and Rachel M. Van Antwerp of Milton Junction.

Investigating committee, warned Mr. Alexander of the tremendous responsibility he was assuming.

Warn Client of Danger.

Several of them—and among them Mr. Hughes—almost begged of him not to take the step he had planned. They warned him of the personal danger, of the humiliations that would come not only to him, but to his wife, daughter, and sons. He replied he had discussed the matter fully with his wife, his daughter, and his sons, and they agreed with him that no matter what would be the personal loss he should carry out his purpose. His advisers tried a different tack to swerve him from his purposes and appealed to his vanity and his love of his reputation as a safe and capable business man.

When convinced that nothing could swerve Mr. Alexander from his purpose the lawyers considered anxiously their own position. One of them said to him:

"We must know, frankly, if we are to go ahead in this and take the position we must before the public, that we can rely upon your standing fast and true. See what our position will be if you reconsider and back out under the weight of the counter attacks which are bound to come."

Agrees to Stand Firm.

"You will find me at all times where I belong," returned Alexander, "right at your elbow advising you to go on, never counseling withdrawal or compromise. The principle at stake must take precedence at all times over the individuals involved. From now on individuals must cease to be regarded. The principle involved must be the single and only consideration."

Mr. Alexander in his retreat knows nothing about the victory his friends claim for the principle for which he made so many sacrifices. Not a word about business matters has been spoken to him since early in July. No newspapers have been shown him. The doctors say he has lost the power of physical recuperation. So slender is the remaining hold of his intellect upon reason that the most acute care is taken to protect what is left.

The four children killed and some of the injured were returning from early mass at St. John's church and were passing by the bank when the explosion came.

Offices on the upper floors of the building were entirely demolished by the explosion. The accident was caused by a leak in the basement gas pipes. The gas overcame a telephone operator two hours before the fatal happening.

REV. LAUGHLIN'S MORNING SERMON

"THOUGHTS ABOUT GOD" WAS THE THEME.

DIFFICULT TO THINK ABOUT

He is Unknowable, for We Cannot See or Understand Him, Though He is Ever Present.

At the Presbyterian church yesterday morning Rev. J. W. Laughlin, D. D., spoke upon the theme, "Thoughts About God." His sermon was interesting and forceful. In part it was as follows:

A difficulty we experience in thinking about God is in the fact that He is unknowable. We have heard of him from our earliest infancy, and yet we do not know him. We cannot understand him. We have measured the earth, fathomed the sea, planned the heavens, but when we begin to talk about God, we falter. Another difficulty is found in the fact that He has never been seen. The Bible says no one can see God and live. But no one can see himself and live. No doctor has been able to locate the soul, no scientist has ever been able to pick up genius with his finger and say: "Here it is." And yet we know the thing we call "genius" and the thing we call "soul" exist. So it is not valid to say that since we cannot know God as we know each other, and since we cannot see him as we see men, therefore he does not exist. Nothing explains the world so well as God. Nothing explains life so well as God. Whence came these hills and mountains? Whence came this sun and these stars? This life of ours—tragedy and comedy—sunshine and shadow—whence came it? Reasons says God. Humanity says God. The Bible says in the beginning, God.

Many and varied are the conceptions men have had of God as they have advanced in intellectual life. Our earliest thoughts of him are associated with notions of power—creative power perhaps. We thought that through him the world was made. We had no other way of accounting for its existence. Then we began to fear him. The thunders as they rolled in the heavens and the lightning as it flashed in the clouds were evidences of his wrath. And we erected an altar and made offerings to him, hoping thereby to appease his anger. By and by he became identified with the affairs of men. How he was identified no one could tell. The mystery of life became more and more mysterious and no philosopher could solve the problem. We rose by slow degrees through long centuries to think of him as our Father, and when Jesus came the highest revelation concerning God was expressed. We learned that God is love.

From early times men have tried to locate God. They have said he must have an abiding place. He is in the heavens and has a throne from whence he issues kingly commands, or he is in the temple where he must be worshipped. And so with power and a throne we have always thought of him as a king or ruler who directs affairs through agents or laws.

But more and more we are coming today to think of him, not as seated on a throne in the heavens above; not as a king or ruler on side the world, not abiding in the temple, or church house. A close study of Paul's words to the Athenians has made us feel that he is not far from any of us. For in him we live and move and have our being. He may be unknown to us; we are not unknown to him. He may be invisible

NOBODY IS EXEMPT.

A New Preparation Which Everyone Will Need Sooner or Later.

Almost everybody's digestion is disordered more or less, and the commonest thing they do for it to take some one of the many so-called blood purifiers which, in many cases, are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed. If the organs are in a clogged condition, they need only a little help and they will right themselves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach and bowels and often do more harm than good.

Purgings is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in condition to be readily digested and assimilated. Dr. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and excretion of the digestive fluids and relieve the congested condition of the glands and membranes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do its work. When that is done you need take no more tablets, unless you eat what does not agree with you. Then, take one or two tablets—give them needed help, and you will have no trouble.

It's a common sense medicine and a common-sense treatment, and it will cure every time. Not only cure the disease but cure the cause. Goes about it in a perfectly sensible and we have testimonials enough to fill a book, but we don't publish many of them. However—Mrs. E. M. Fitch of Byrd's Creek, Wis., says: "I have taken all the tablets I got of you and they have done their work well in my case. For I feel like a different person altogether. I don't doubt if I had not got them I should have been at rest by this time."

H. E. Willard, Onslow, Iowa, says: "Mr. White, of Canton, was telling me of your Dyspepsia Tablets curing him of dyspepsia, from which he suffered for eight years. As I am a sufferer myself I wish you to send me a package by return mail."

Phil. Brooks, Detroit, Mich., says: "Your Dyspepsia cure has worked wonders in my case. I suffered for years from Dyspepsia, but am now entirely cured and enjoy life as I never have before. I gladly recommend them."

It will cost 50c to find out just how much Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will help you. Try them—that's the best way to decide.

to us; we are not to him. He is in us and through us, round us, and about us. We may hear his voice if we will. He is that force that power that influence, which plays about us and continually suggests honesty, purity, truth. That is God. Who has not felt the very atmosphere about him favoring a better life? Who has not felt the current of his life pulling towards right living? That is God. Who has not heard a voice within speaking quietly about duty and destiny? That is God. One cannot go off by himself and say, "Now I am alone." One either is there. You are in the office or in the bank, or in the counting house, the customers have gone, the door is bolted, the shutters drawn, and you are alone. No you are not. One other is there. You cannot say he is in the heavens above, or in the temple, or in the sanctuary. He is here. "He is not far," says Paul, "from any one of us."

We say that it is a new thought about God. It is not new. It is as old as the Psalmist. Whither shall I go from thy presence, or whither shall I flee from thy spirits. If I ascend up into heaven thou art there. If I make my bed in sheol thou art there. If I take the wings of the morning and flee to that uttermost part of the sea, even there shall thy hand lead me and thy right hand shall hold me.

It is Whittier who says in one of his exultant moods: "O joy, supreme, I know his voice. Like none beside on earth or sea. A more, O soul of mine, rejoice. By all that he requires of me. I know what he himself must be."

"No picture to my aid I call. I shape no image in my prayer. I only know in him is all. Of life, light beauty every where. Eternal goodness here and there."

"I know He is and what He is. Whose one great purpose is the good of all. I rest on His eternal love and fatherhood. And trust Him as His children should."

FASHION NOTES

MUFFS AND BOAS.

Strictly speaking, the fur jacket is incomplete without its accompanying muffs and boas, yet both of these can be omitted, especially the boa, whose service is usurped to a great degree by the shawl and fish collar effects in vogue this season. But the woman who cannot afford a fur coat will find much pleasure in wearing "with her velvet or cloth wrap the newest muffs and boas."

Of course the distinguished feature of the former is their size, which has been constantly increasing for the past two seasons until the latest muffs are nothing short of monstrous. There is no general rule to be followed in the matter of shape. The size is the principal thing. Many of the prettiest designs, however, are flat and have all the conveniences of the modern hand-bag secreted within their warm folds. The most expensive muffs are those trimmed with numberless tails of the same of a contrasting fur. If the pelt is one of the standard ones, these caudal appendages add much to its value when put into one of the fashionable muffs. These decorations are neither superfluous nor necessary, but as one well-known couturiere puts it, they are just stunning. Without having any obvious purpose they add so much to the beauty of a muff that the temptation to use them proves too much for the designers of smart furs.

Boas are of all kinds and descriptions, and the dainty four-in-hand which created such a furore last year will this winter find themselves face to face with more elaborate models also bidding for popular favor. The latter cover a larger area about the shoulders and have the most delightful little trimmings of head, tail, and neck. Sable, mink, chinchilla, and ermine are used very successfully in all of the newest neckpieces, which are at their best when worn with the elegant velvet tailored gowns with which the season abounds.

PLAYED A HARD GAME, BUT LOST

JANESVILLE DEFEATED BY SOUTH SIDE MILWAUKEE SATURDAY.

SCORE WAS 39 AGAINST 0

Locals Were Outweighed and Inferior in Speed—Had No Chance to Make First Down.

On a strange gridiron and with no room to cheer them on, the Janesville high school football team went down to defeat before the South Side Milwaukee eleven on the latter's home grounds Saturday afternoon. The locals were outclassed in weight and speed. They played the game hard but not once did they succeed in making first down. Their first offensive play was nipped in the bud, the ball not getting beyond the quarterback. Throughout the game Janesville's plays were broken up by the Milwaukee ends or the backs were thrown for losses after they had punctured the Cream City line. Milwaukee's victory was taken by a pulling, shoving game, the entire team assisting the man with the ball. Their touchdowns were each earned, though they did pile up a score of 39 against the naught of Janesville. Janesville put up a game fight but they could do nothing with the fierce smashes of the Milwaukee backs, who seldom failed to advance the pigskin the required distance. The only flaw in the playing of the South Side team was the bad fumbling. The feature of the contest outside of the team of the Milwaukee players was the work of Meyer and Krems. The speedy half circled the ends of opposing team for big gains of from five to thirty-five yards whenever he was called upon to advance the ball while Krems seldom failed to make the required distance. Tuel, the big guard, was also used with good effect in carrying the ball.

Four Touchdowns in Half. South Side won the toss and Capt. Rudolph chose the south goal with a fair breeze in his favor. Wright kicked off to Case who fumbled, Mahoney recovering the ball. The locals, who were unable to advance the oval on the next two downs punted to South Side's fifteen-yard line. On the first play Krems hit the line for eight yards, Meyer then circled right end for a lightning forty-yard run that brought the crowd to its feet. By a series of line bucks in which Krems and Bird did the brunt of the work the ball was brought to the Janesville five-yard line, where Krems went over for the first score after five minutes of play. Cooper kicked an easy goal. Cooper kicked off for South Side to Janesville, who were forced to punt. Krems blocking the kick on the visitors' twenty-five-yard line. Here the South Side backs started another procession toward the opposing goal, Meyer scoring the second touchdown. Cooper failed to kick the goal. Touchdowns by Bird and Tuel followed in rapid order. Tuel going over after the ball had been carried nearly the entire length of the field. The half ended with the ball in the center of the field in South Side's possession. Score, 22 to 0.

Janesville Punt Much. South Side kicked off to Janesville who immediately punted to the center of the field. South Side then advanced the pigskin to the locals' fifteen-yard line, where Meyer fumbled. Bird fell on the ball. On the next play Meyer was pushed over for a score. Here Daggett was substituted for Meyer, Kermott for Case, Gomy for Hickey, and Kroening for Hoffman. The next score came in quick time, the Milwaukeeans taking the ball at the kickoff and carrying it the length of the field. Tuel going over after a twenty-yard snarl on a guard back play. South Side again kicked off but the Bower City boys were held for downs on their thirty-five-yard line, where Daggett attempted a goal kick but failed, the ball falling short of the posts. Janesville then punted out of danger, Bird returning twenty yards to Janesville's fifteen-yard line, where Koenig made a drop kick which missed the goal posts by a wide margin. Janesville then brought the ball out and kicked from the ten-yard line. Kroening returned twenty yards and Bird, Daggett and Krems alternated in carrying the ball to the three-yard line, where Krems went over for the final score. The half ended a minute later with the ball in the center of the field. Score, 39 to 0.

The lineup: Janesville. South Division: Rudolph (Capt.) C. Connors Case, T. Myers, G. Gooden Cooper, J. Howland Tuel, W. Waterman Hansen, R. Cassidy Hickey, R. Langdon Hoffman, J. Wright (Capt.) Bird, Daggett, L. Sennett Meyer, R. Mahoney Krems. Summary: Touchdowns—Meyer, 2; Tuel, 2; Bird, Krems, 2. Goals—Cooper, 4. Referee—Juneau. Umpire—Jacobs. Head linesman—Siefert. Time of halves—25 and 20 minutes. Substitutes—Daggett for Meyer, Gomy for Hickey, Kermott for Case, Kroening for Hoffman.

The standing of the teams in the state high school championship race had been somewhat changed in the last week of play. Several teams which have hitherto been in the race have been definitely disposed of, while several new contenders have suddenly loomed up in the horizon. The biggest surprise last Saturday was the easy manner in which the South Division team disposed of the Janesville team to the tune of 39 to 0, which beats the score made by the University of Wisconsin freshmen against Hammons's men two weeks ago. The defeat puts Janesville entirely out of the race.

Madison high school came to the front with a rush last Saturday by defeating the Darlington high school team to the tune of 62 to 0 and will henceforth have to be reckoned with as a strong contender for championship honors. It is possible that Madison and South Division may meet next Saturday, and one of these teams will thus be put out of the running.

Eau Claire and Baraboo, by virtue of playing a tie game, are both still in the race.

Fort Atkinson has not lost a game as yet, but the team will have to be bolstered up a great deal before it can hope to be champion. Fort Atkinson and Baraboo meet next Saturday and one of these teams is due to be put out of the running.

Superior high school is making a great showing and will take some mighty hard playing to put this aggregation down for the count.

East Green Bay has a clean schedule, thus far not having lost a game, but that team has made especially hard work in defeating some of the minor teams of the state and hence is not considered to be of a high class of championship timber. Milwaukee East Division has defeated three high school teams and has an inferior quality of team which cannot be considered a championship possibility unless that team improves wonderfully in the next week.

Sparta high school has been winning games by big scores and that team may be a contender for the title.

FOURTH EXHIBITION OF PICTURES ENDED

Ladies of Art League Unable to Agree on Painting for Permanent Collection—Committee to Go to Chicago.

On Saturday evening the fourth semi-annual exhibition of paintings from the art galleries of W. Scott Thuermer, Chicago, held under the auspices of the Janesville Art League, was closed at Eldred hall. It was quite the best of all the exhibitions that have been seen here and the attendance was uniformly excellent. Saturday afternoon the ladies met to decide on the picture which was to be purchased for the permanent local collection but were unable to reach a decision. Several strongly favored a $300 marine but others were opposed to this plan, as the treasury did not contain the requisite sum and the purchase would necessitate the league going into debt. The matter was finally settled by the appointment of a committee of five with authority to go to Chicago and select a picture. The members delegated were: Messrs. James Mills, P. A. Canale, E. F. Woods, Charles Tarrant, and J. F. Pembler.

WEEKLY DIGEST FOR THE PRODUCE RAISER

Reports from Throughout the County Show Completion of The Year's Work.

The month of November usually ushers in a series of changeable weather. It is the month that Dame Nature bids a reluctant farewell to the delightful autumn and turns (lingeringly to receive old King Winter and his icy crew. On the whole, however, what kind of weather to expect during this month, so quickly to clouds follow sunshine and stormy squalls follow fair, bright days. This past week has been a sample and although it has not delayed the farmer's work to any great extent, yet it has given him warning as to what he may expect, that he may profit thereby. If hard freezing weather will only hold off for a week or two it will find the majority with their fall work finished and with a mind at ease.

Many are still harvesting sugar beets and rushing that work with all possible speed. For their sake it is to be hoped that a solid freeze-up will not occur very soon, for it would be an impossibility to get that crop out of the frozen ground.

Speaking of sugar beets, reminds me that many farmers feed the sugar beet pulp to their cows and with very good results. And if stock is to do its best during the cold period of the year when it is necessary to feed dry rations then some kind of succulent food must be added, and the pulp answers this purpose admirably. But absolute cleanliness should be used in handling it. The troughs should be cleaned thoroughly after each feeding, for if not the pulp that is left will become foul in warm weather and frozen hard in winter. Cows are particular animals and will not eat the pulp after it has been nosed over and breathed upon, so it is better to feed in smaller quantities. As the pulp has a laxative tendency it is a good plan to feed hay with it. Many farmers grow mangels and find that not only cows but horses, sheep and pigs enjoy them and thrive splendidly when fed to them.

There are still a great many acres of corn yet to be husked and thrashed and the farmer is handicapped in the harvesting of this crop by the scarcity of help. The hired-help question is a proposition that is staring the farmer square in the face and every year the state of affairs becomes more alarming.

It is claimed by a prominent horse authority that "the breeder of big draft horses is going to make money in the next few years. For with the increasing difficulty of securing hired help on the large farms of the west, farmers are forced to use more machinery to do the work. When formerly a gang-plow was a novelty, now they are quite common and the same is true of binders, mowers and other harvesting tools. These large tools demand larger horses and the farmer of the western states is buying horses that average several hundred pounds heavier than formerly." A great quantity of corn has been cribbed and many prefer not to sell very much now but hold until later in the winter, hoping to get a better price.

Although many think that it is too expensive to save their corn, yet others consider that it is a profitable practice, for a great deal more of the stalk is used than if fed whole. Shredded fodder is easy to feed and that which is not eaten makes excellent bedding.

Buyers are still riding and picking up the few crops of tobacco that still remain unsold, but the majority of the crop is sold. Growers are selling as rapidly as good prices are offered them, so that when case weather comes they can get their crop down, stripped, delivered and converted into cash as quickly as possible.

Labor Notes

A state branch of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' and Butcher Workmen's Union was organized in Syracuse, New York, recently.

Mexican Central railway firemen are on a strike.

Three thousand miners struck recently at one of the Wilkesbarre, Pa., coal mines.

The "Open Shop" Electrical Workers' Association of Boston and vicinity, has been formed.

Eight thousand cigar-makers are on strike.

The railway employees of Rome, Italy, have inaugurated a novel strike. They have decided not to leave work, but to pursue a policy of obstruction. This lies in observing to the letter the regulations of the railways. All sorts of delays are brought about by following the minutest details in routine.

The report of the New York State Commissioner of Labor for the quarter ending June 30, 1905, confirms the prevalent opinion that the present year has so far been a comparatively prosperous one in trade and business.

A report of the British Board of Trade on strikes and lockouts in the United Kingdom in the year 1904 has just been published. It shows that 354 labor disputes were recorded during the fiscal year, involving about $7,000 work people, or less than one per cent of the industrial population of the country, exclusive of agricultural laborers, and seamen.

A RED HOT BOOK ON STOVES FREE!

INTERESTING READING AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR.

Big Chunks of Stove Truths for Winter Reading Sent by Return Mail.

Did anyone ever make you an offer of a stove or range absolutely free, freight prepaid to your railroad station, with several lengths of stove-pipe thrown in?

Have you ever read "offers of stoves or ranges sent on 30 days' free trial, freight prepaid, stovepipe, oven, thermometers, etc., etc., included, with the understanding that if you were not pleased, you could ship it back at the manufacturers' expense?"

Haven't you noticed a great many stove advertisements that seemed so liberal that you felt it was almost a shame to take advantage of the generosity of the man behind the stove?

And haven't you wondered how it was possible for such wonderful "bargains" to be offered by these small stove manufacturers when the stove dealer right in your own town is the authorized agent of the largest stove factory in the world; who could always take better care of your wants and you could see the stove before you purchased and if it was not convenient for you to pay for it at the time of purchase you could get credit?

Well, this Free Stove Book, written by one of the greatest Stove Experts in the United States, tells some scorching truths about the stove business, and it will be found very interesting reading—sent you free.

It explains why a mail order stove that will hold together and do fairly well for a month or two, will soon begin to burn out—get every stove-disease in the category and eat up its own cost in fuel, besides causing endless trouble to the entire household.

In fact, every page and every chapter of the book is fairly alive with the truth about stoves, and when you've finished reading it, you know just how to tell a good stove from a bad one and no matter what kind of an alluring offer you hear of, you can tell right where to look for the "nigger in the woodpile" every time!

Send for the book while it's hot, reading. This is the season of the year when you can enjoy it.

A postal will bring this interesting and valuable book by return mail, free of cost. Address: "Stove Expert" 425 Jefferson Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

"Sky Farm," which is now announced by Jos. R. Grismer at the Myers Grand theatre, Tuesday, November 7, is a story of New England life of seeming absorbing interest, brimming over with those two great elements of attractiveness in a play—love and fun. People generally go to the theatre to be amused. There is accordingly scarcely a character akin to any of the numerous New England villages whose counterpart cannot be found in this latest and best production of Mr. Grismer's. By common repute they are all capital, drawn, too, with no ridiculous exaggeration, but with just enough embellishment to add to their picturesque attractiveness.

—FORTY YEARS AGO—

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, November 6, 1865.—Extra Edition.—We printed an extra addition of the Gazette this afternoon, in order to give notice of the Union meeting tonight, and to get some other matter before those who do not take the paper regularly. If one of our subscribers happened to have two copies left at his residence today, this is the explanation.

Union Meeting Tonight.

Turn out to the Union Meeting at Hyatt House Hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Col. E. A. Calkins and others will be present and address the meeting.

Meeting of the Soldiers.—They Don't Fight Under the Rebel Flag.—They Resolve to Support Richardson. At the Soldiers' Meeting on Saturday evening, at the Court Room, Captain Ira Millmore was called to the chair and E. Hart appointed Secretary.

On motion Joseph Baker, Captain Norcross, Major Millmore, Captain King, and Capt. Gage Burgess were appointed as a committee on resolutions, who reported as follows:

Resolved—That as we have maintained and supported the Union throughout the war, so are we united in our determination, by our votes, to sustain the Union ticket at home.

Resolved—That as we have opposed rebels upon the battlefield, so will we oppose their abettors and sympathizers, (we mean the copperheads), at the ballot box.

Resolved—That as Hamilton Richardson is the regular Union nominee for Assemblyman we will support him at the polls as he has faithfully supported us and our cause, the cause of the nation, during the war.

Resolved—That the copperheads can support their own ticket, and the people of Janesville can show how they stand.

Resolutions adopted and ordered printed in the Gazette.

IRA MILLMORE, Chm., S. S. HART, Secy.

Good for the Soldiers.—By the proceedings published of the Soldiers' meeting Saturday night elsewhere, it will be seen that the veterans have seen the rebel flag too often on many a bloody field, not to know the dirty rag, even when it is carried by deserters from the Union ranks. The rebels raised the Union flag at Bull Run and Pea Ridge on purpose to decoy our boys into their traps, and the copperheads are doing the same thing here, but it won't win. There will be a bayonet charge tomorrow and the enemy may as well look to his lines of retreat.

VICTORINE IN LACE AND SABLES

The foundation in this modish little theatre wrap is of a heavy white satin, and this determines the shape. The sleeves are composed of successive ruffles of a net top lace, these running in raglan fashion clear up to the collar-band. The front and back are similar in construction, the sable being arranged in a cascaded position in the back and dropping into stole ends in front. Over the raglan sleeves the fur is passed in narrow straps, the lace ruffles peeping through prettily, and handsome white appliques continue this idea across the front of solid fur. Handsome buttons of oxidized solid silver, incrustured with turquoise matrix, make a fastening, either side of the front.

CATARRH THE PLAGUE OF WINTER

Every Catarrh sufferer dreads the return of cold weather, for at the first cold breath of the season this plague of Winter is fanned into life with all its miserable symptoms. The nostrils are stopped up, and a constant dropping of mucus back into the throat keeps up a continual hawking and spitting, the patient has dull headaches, ringing noises in the ears and a half sick, depressed feeling all the time. Every inner lining and tissue of the body becomes inflamed, and secretes an unhealthy matter which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and the disease becomes constitutional. The catarrhal poison brings on stomach troubles, affects the Kidneys and Bladder, attacks the soft bones of the throat and head and if not checked leads to Consumption. A disease so deep-seated and dangerous cannot be washed out, neither can it be smoked away. Sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are useless, because they only reach the membranes and tissues, while the real cause of the disease is in the blood. S. S. S. cures Catarrh because it attacks it through the blood; it goes into the circulation and drives out all unhealthy accumulations and catarrhal matter, and when this is done every part of the system receives a supply of rich, pure blood. Then the inflamed membranes and tissues heal, all discharge ceases, the depressed feeling of the body is relieved, and every symptom passes away. S. S. S. goes to the very root of the trouble, and by purifying and enriching the blood and building up the entire system, cures Catarrh permanently. If you have Catarrh do not waste time with local remedies, but begin S. S. S. and write for our book and any medical advice without charge.

RATE CONTROL

FORCES LINE UP

Both Sides Are Ready to Carry Matter Before Congress This Session.

MORE POWER FOR COMMISSION

President Roosevelt Leads the Fight to Give Interstate Commerce Board Full Sway in Fixing Minimum Tariff Schedules.

Washington, Nov. 6.—When the contending forces of the administration and the railroads meet for a test of strength in congress at the coming session on the question of enlarging the powers of the interstate commerce commission, each side will find the other thoroughly prepared. Much has been said of the tremendous amount of money expended by the railroad interests in carrying on their campaign of publicity during the past six months; but the fact that things were also doing by the forces controlled by the White House has been practically lost sight of.

Investigations by the interstate commerce commission have been timed to produce the greatest amount of publicity and agitation. Court proceedings in the rebate cases have been set for about the time that the senate committee meets to frame its report on the exhaustive hearings that were held last spring.

Trump Cards Held Back.

Then there are a number of trump cards that the administration is holding in reserve to spring with the most dramatic effect, just about the time congress meets. There are to be new prosecutions of the railroads, which are calculated to make big news stories and arouse public sentiment to such an extent that the needed pressure can be brought on members of congress who may still persist in refusing to follow the lead of the president on the question of freight rate legislation.

During the summer, while the railroads were pushing their publicity campaign and rallying not a few of the shipping and manufacturing interests to their support, the other side did practically nothing. But the Chicago meeting of the interstate commerce law convention was the first gun of the administration campaign.

President Roosevelt regards it as a decided victory that the Parry forces were not admitted to that meeting. Judge P. H. Hall of California, one of the leaders of the convention, took a preliminary report of the skirmish to Life White House, and told the president that every delegate was convinced that the rate question could be controlled only by an administrative body such as the interstate commerce commission, having the power not only to declare a rate unreasonable, but also to name the reasonable rate. The president agreed that such was the only possible solution, and that a railroad court could not handle the subject of railroad rates except as appealed to by the government or carriers.

Private Car Hearings.

The next move by the administration was the hearing of the private car cases, in which it was sought to show that the feigning charges were unreasonable and that to control this alleged abuse it was necessary to give the commission jurisdiction over these companies. While the hearings, apparently, failed to develop any case that would hold water in court against the Armour company and the railroads, the fact was undoubtedly developed that the private car was a possible device for rebating.

In fact one of the officials of the Santa Fe Refrigerator Despatch admitted that his company gave rebates to shippers using its cars. The issue of jurisdiction was also raised, and the Armour people were goaded into defying the commission, to bring a test of the matter in the courts. It can safely be predicted no such move will be made.

The desired effect has been accomplished in that it has been clearly shown the commission's power over private car lines must be defined by new legislation in order to bring these companies into the common carrier class. Apparently the Armour companies and the railroads put the commission in a hole at the hearing, but for agitation and publicity purposes the supposed success from the administration's standpoint.

JANITOR HAS TO PAY $12.20 FOR ASSAULT

Prerogatives of His Office Discussed by James McClelland on the Witness Stand.

In municipal court this morning the action for assault brought against James McClelland, janitor of the Jackman block, on complaint of James Palmer, a student of Miss Williams' business college, was given an airing. The trouble occurred on Oct. 23 and came about through a dispute as to Palmer's rights in the ways. It was witnessed by several young lady stenographers who testified against the janitor on the stand today. Janitor McClelland told the court that he was at work in Dr. Palmer's office on the fourth floor when he heard the complainant in the case coming down the stairs. He had been having some trouble with telegraph students who have no rights in the halls, that morning, so he went to the head of the stairway and called down: "You students go the other way!" Palmer replied that he had the privilege and when the janitor asked him who gave him the privilege he replied that Miss Williams had done so. Then the janitor asked him if he did not belong to the telegraph school and he replied that he did not. Afterwards the janitor took the elevator down to get a passenger and when he came up again he heard Palmer coming down from the fifth floor and he also heard him inquire in loud tones of one of the young women who happened to be in the hall who was boss around there, Jackman or the janitor. Forthwith the latter, arriving on the scene, asked him what he wanted and Palmer repeated the inquiry he had been propounding. Immediately there ensued an engagement as to who was boss, ending in each calling the other a liar. The janitor admitted that Palmer could ride on the elevator but said that he could prevent loitering in the hall. Palmer announced that he was right there and was going to stand there as long as he darn pleased. Thereafter the janitor seized him by the overcoat collar with one hand and with the other on his back propelled him to the stairway landing. Palmer resisted this sort of locomotion and tried to lead out with his right, according to the testimony of the janitor. The latter ducked and in a wrestling match which ensued both sprawled on the floor. The janitor heeded the cries of "Don't Mac!" and let Palmer up, at the same time recovering his hat and presenting it to him.

Janitorial Prerogatives

Atty. O. A. Oestreich, representing the complainant, asked the defendant if tenants who conversed regarding anything except business in the halls of the Jackman block would come under his category of

"loafers," the janitor having previously stated that he had orders from the owner of the building not to permit loitering in the corridors. He answered in the affirmative and admitted that if the young lady stenographers disregarded his orders to go back to the offices from which they came it would be his duty to put them back. While he could not say how long anyone would have to talk before he became a loafer, he was certain that two minutes of such conversation would place them in that class.

Small Fine But Heavy Costs

Atty. W. G. Wheeler, representing the defendant, argued that Palmer's inquiry in loud tones as to who was the boss constituted disorderly conduct, but the court was not quite ready to concede this point and was of the opinion that a technical assault had been committed, though neither party was injured in the encounter. Judge Field, after stating that in his opinion it would have been better if the case had not been brought into court, found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $1 and costs amounting to $12.20 in all, with the alternative of five days in jail. The fine was paid this afternoon.

INDIAN RELICS OF PAST DAYS FOUND

Strange Snake Discovered by Hunter

in the Town of Porter Recently.

One of the most peculiar finds of Indian relics occurred recently near the old Black Hawk trail on the Sidney Earle farm in the town of Porter. Webster Peters, who has quite a reputation as authority on Indian relics, was hunting rabbits on the Earle farm. One cotton-tail ran into an old log and Mr. Peters kicked the log to dislodge his prey. The log was in such a rotten shape that it crumbled under his foot and revealed a hoard of relics which have seldom been equalled in one find. Lying extended as though about to strike its prey lay a seven-foot spotted snake. Mr. Webster made an examination and discovered the snake was wood, painted with some yellow coloring in spots and stripes to represent a massauga or black rattlesnake. It was perfect in shape and if its curves could be straightened out it would measure seven feet. Beside it lay a petrified nut, resembling a large hickory nut, three arrowheads, a bow and the remains of three arrows besides some axes. One of the arrow points was a sapphire blue, transparent, and the only one of its kind ever found in this locality. The wooden snake is the greatest curiosity. It curves and twists and when varnished by Mr. Webster showed a lifelike resemblance to its dreaded namesake. The log was in such a rotten condition that the articles may have lain there for a hundred years without being disturbed.

Mr. Webster has a very complete collection of relics, he has himself found and many of his specimens are on exhibition in the State Historical society rooms at Madison.

THE COMING OF A PRINCE

The Four Hundred in a Flutter and Society Eager to Dance Upon a Real Ballroom That Rides the Sea.

Louis of Battenberg, Who Bears a Message of Good Will From King Edward, Will Also Bring Joy to the Social World.

The Distinguished Visitor Is an Admiral and Prince, but He Is a Good Fellow as Well. Democratic in Taste, of Marked Ability, He Has Won His Way to the Top on His Merits.

NEWPORT and Fifth avenue are excited. A prince is coming to America. Not since the days when the brother of the kaiser was "in our midst" has there been such a flutter in the hearts of the Four Hundred. The prince who is coming to see us now is not the brother of any of the reigning monarchs, but he is the brother-in-law of the czar of all the Russias. He is likewise a nephew of King Edward, at least by marriage, besides being related to most of the royalties of Europe. Nearly everybody of royal blood is connected with nearly everybody else of royal blood, there having been so much intermarriage among reigning houses that the intricacies of relationship are something fearful and wonderful to behold. "Our royal consorts, and from his slow progress it appears that he was permitted to do so. His nickname in the navy is "Latta," which was applied to him at first out of contempt, but is now given in affection. When on duty he insists on being accorded only the recognition due him as an officer of the navy, waiving all the princely prerogatives. He also insists on being marked as "L. B." in the navy. He has had to live pretty much altogether on his pay as an officer, as he is only the possessor of a castle and small estate in Germany, from which he derives little revenue. He is said to his credit, his whole ambition has seemed to be in the line of making himself a good naval officer, and he has ever been loyal to the country of his adoption. Several years ago, when he was only a captain in the British navy, without any immediate prospect of promotion, he was offered by his brother-in-law, the czar, the position of vice admiral in the Russian navy, but declined it. True, he is a major general of artillery in the German army, but that is only an honorary title. The other would not have been a play place. If he had accepted the czar's offer Prince Louis might now have been at the bottom of the China sea, where considerable of the Russian navy went.

At another time Prince Louis was offered the rulership of Bulgaria, a post that his brother had held, but he also declined that. In fact, he is said to regret that he was born a prince and not a naval officer pure and simple. So it may be just as well to call him Admiral Battenberg, the title that he himself prefers.

Popular in the Navy.

The admiral was never in actual battle but once, and that was in Egypt in 1882. He was a sublieutenant then, serving under Lord Charles Beresford. For his service in that action he wears a medal and the khedive's star. He was afterward made a lieutenant, several years later a commander, then a captain and only recently a rear admiral. He has shown considerable ability in naval maneuvers and was for several years director of naval intelligence at the admiralty, a position a little interested—more, in fact, than they are in princes or what not. The fleet which Prince Louis is bringing is known as the second cruiser squadron and is the fastest in the world. It consists of the armored cruiser Drake, which is the flagship, and the smaller armored cruisers Essex, Cornwall, Berwick, Bedford and Cumberland. The Drake is a vessel of over 14,000 tons and above a twenty-four knot speed. The others are each 9,200 tons and have a speed of twenty-three knots. The American navy has only one cruiser making as high as twenty-three knots, and that is the Minneapolis.

A Brave Sight.

British war vessels visited these shores in former times, but not on good will missions. In those good old days

REAR ADMIRAL ROBLEY D. EVANS.

John Paul Jones, Perry, Decatur, Lawrence and others did things to the visitors other than entertaining them at pink teas. Though getting the best of the English generally, we did not have everything our own way. For example, a British fleet once took Washington. It is proposed that Prince Louis shall take Washington, but only socially. The British ambassador is to give him a great blowout, after which he will be received and given a dinner at the White House. The fleet will visit Hampton Roads and Annapolis and will make New York bay in its rounds. It arrives too late for the Newport season, which is quite a disappointment to the Four Hundred, but is of no great concern to the rest of the country. The visitors will be escorted by an American fleet under the command of "Fighting Bob" Evans, who, though not of royal descent, is something of an admiral himself. With all the Yankee and English vessels in line they will make a brave sight. There will be balls and receptions, pink teas and dinners galore. These will take place on shore, on the decks of the American vessels and on the specially constructed ballroom deck of the Drake.

During the summer Prince Louis was in Canadian waters. His cruise will be an extensive one, as he is to visit Africa and South America, it being his instructions to "show the flag" at pretty much all the Atlantic ports. It must not be imagined that the command of such a squadron is altogether a show affair. It takes ability to command a fleet of fast cruisers even in time of peace.

World of Good Advice.

Accompanying his uncle as an extra A. D. C. is Prince Alexander of Battenberg, a grandson of the late Queen Victoria. While in Montreal, Alexander told this story on himself: "Several years ago he was a cadet cruising in the Mediterranean. Running short of money, he wrote a pathetic letter to his royal grandma for funds. No reply. Again he wrote, the second appeal being more touching than the first. To this there came a long epistle from Grandma Victoria containing a world of good advice, but no remittance. Then Alexander wrote a third letter. It ran:

Dear Grandma—Thanks for your letter; also for your photo received at the same time. It proved a friend in need. I auctioned it off and realized $20 for it.

If family men always find favor in the eyes of President Roosevelt, Prince Louis of Battenberg should be popular at the White House, as he is the father of four, ranging in age all the way from twenty to five, the two older being girls and the two younger boys.

This scion of royalty is also an inventor. He devised the first system of in" is more than a mere figure of speech nowadays. To be exact about the various kinds of this particular scion of royalty who is to favor us by his presence and who is known to fame, by the way, as Prince Louis of Battenberg, he is a grandson of Queen Victoria and a nephew of Edward VII, both in his own right and by marriage, his royal consort being his cousin, Princess Victoria of Hesse. He is nephew of the late empress of Russia and brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas II, and said to be the favorite brother-in-law at that. He is brother-in-law of Prince Henry of Prussia, who in his turn is the brother of Emperor William II of Germany. He is father-in-law of Prince Andrew of Greece. He is the brother of the late Alexander, ruler of Bulgaria. He is brother of the late brother-in-law of the kings of Italy and Serbia, and how many more relationships he has, both by blood and law, dependent said not.

In spite of all this handicap Prince Louis is asserted to be something of a man. Perhaps this is accounted for by the fact that his mother was not royal. She was only a Russian countess by the name of Hauke. There was all kinds of a royal halo about when his father married this woman, and he was forced to submit to its being called a morganatic union, but later Louis' mother was made Princess of Battenberg, which was a sort of left handed recognition of her, though she was still not royal. For this reason Prince Louis, in spite of his long list of relationships, is not entitled to be addressed as H. R. H. (his royal highness), but only as H. S. H. (his serene highness). There is something like knowing how to address these highnesses properly.

Loyal British Subject.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, notwithstanding the fact that he has a German name, birth and title is a British subject. He became such on entering the English navy at an early age. He insisted on working up on his that requires a man of brains. There was much criticism when he was appointed to this responsible place, due to the fact that he was foreign born, but after a time this disappeared. Of late years his democratic habits and demonstrated ability have made him popular in the navy.

His life has not been without scandals. There have been whispers recently that the prince is getting gay in his old age—he is past fifty-one—and it is even intimated that he was sent around the world to get him out of the way of youthful temptations. Gossip, like envy, loves a shining mark. The nobodies of the world can think more complacently of their own sins when they reflect that the somebodies have similar weaknesses.

Prince Louis is a tall, well set up specimen of left handed royalty. This is an agreeable variation, for most of the kings and princelings are not remarkable in this respect. Louis' height and physical and intellectual strength are no doubt due to his mother. He looks much younger than fifty, having black hair and beard and a youthful manner. He wears a uniform well, and that is much, especially in a show squadron. The prince-admiral is out on a social campaign is shown by the fact that a ballroom deck has been erected on his flagship, the only case of the sort on record. Balls are frequently held on the decks of warships, but a special deck made for this purpose is a new thing under the sun.

"To Show the Flag."

The object of the visit of the British squadron to American waters is "to show the flag," as it is known in diplomatic terminology; also to bear a message of good will from King Edward to President Roosevelt. The presentation of such a message in so ostentatious a manner is usually supposed to precede a closer alliance between the two nations participating, but whether or not it has that significance in this case nobody knows. It is a matter, too, in which the American people are quite

KILLS DAUGHTER AS A ROBBER

Fatal Mistake of Father May Cause His Own Death From Remorse.

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 6.—Believing that he was shooting at a burglar, Hayden R. Craft, a well known hardware merchant of this place, killed his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Coddington, at their home in apartments over the hardware store in West Main street. Mrs. Coddington and her husband, Charles Coddington, lived with the former's parents. Mr. Coddington had been ill for four days with pneumonia and early Sunday morning the wife went to the kitchen to get him some tea. The door closed behind her and locked itself with a spring-lock. Her father was awakened by the sound and going to the door called twice. Receiving no response he fired through the door, the bullet striking his daughter in the head.

Advice For the Fullback

Bucking the Line---Have Eyes Open, Don't Hesitate, Keep on Your Feet, Bend Legs as Line Is Hit---The Center Rush and His Work.

The fullback is especially useful in line bucking when his team has the ball and in bracing the center trio when on the defensive. Often he is the man chosen to do the kicking for the team.

is likely to fall flat on his face when an opening in the line presents itself suddenly where he had expected to find the passage choked.

A fullback should never allow himself to hesitate or slow up as he strikes the line; he should strike it while at his maximum speed. A back may run high or low, according to circumstances, particularly so long as he keeps his feet--a most valuable quality. It is also wise for the back to take short steps, as in this way he is not so likely to find himself too much spread out where the footing is hardy firm and where it is almost impossible to get his feet under him in case of some sudden shove or push. The legs should accordingly be bent as the back strikes the line, because in this way he is able to exert much lifting power in case of need.

The feet should ordinarily be kept on the ground, because only when they are there are they of much service. When, however, there is an imperative need of making a gain of a foot or so the back had best dive at the line. Hurdling is sometimes a very good thing, but is not so consistently effective as bucking, where the feet are on the ground. When downed after a buck--or after any play, for that matter--a fullback should instantly straighten out so that there are no doubled up joints for succeeding players to fall upon. Where a fullback is attempting to assist a fellow player along he should aim to get him low and boost him along with the shoulders, rarely with the hands.

When in the midst of a line bucking play which has resolved itself into a pushing contest between the two teams, the fullback should seek an outlet at the point of least resistance, usually to be found by feeling his way in different directions.

The center, or center rush, is the anchor of the team. He is invariably the heaviest and possibly the strongest man of the eleven.

The center rush stands guard over both center holes, assisted by the quarterbacks; the center should stand squarely in front of his man, and the moment the opponent snaps the ball charge him backward, keeping him off at arm's length so as to be able to get into either hole.

Al Kauffman.

Billy Delaney's New Candidate For Heavyweight Ring Honors---His Record.

By THOMAS F. CLARK.

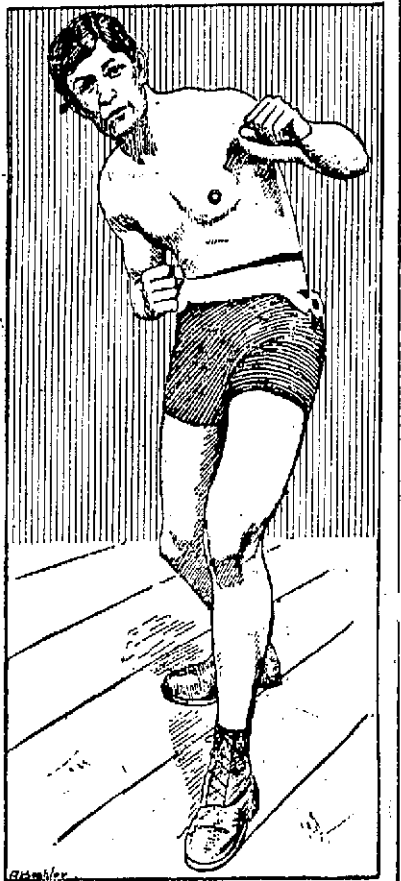

There is a new heavyweight pugilist in San Francisco who seems to be well worth watching. His name is Al Kauffman, and he won his first professional battle in San Francisco recently in such beautiful and finished form that California critics are praising him to the skies.

Even with due allowance for the enthusiasm that bubbles and gushes over every performance of a "native son," the cold record of fact shows that Kauffman fought like a veteran. There is fair ground for hope that he will keep such men as Bob Fitzsimmons, Gus Roblin, Marvin Hart and George Gardner busy for awhile. The native sons are already dreaming of seeing him in the ring with Jeffries, "the only one."

The most promising thing about the new wonder is that Billy Delaney has taken him in charge. Delaney knows his business. He has trained and handled two men in his time--Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries.

Kauffman is twenty-one years old, just the right age for a big, healthy fellow to begin his ring career. He is the amateur heavyweight champion of the Pacific coast. That alone is not a dazzling achievement, for fight connoisseurs remember that Jack Munroe held that title for years before Jeffries blew out his light with one puff; also that Sam Berger, a magnificent big creature of 192 pounds, held it last year until little 150 pound Bill Rodenbach of New York beat him with one hand, so to speak.

It was Kauffman's style rather than the mere title that attracted Billy Delaney's attention. During the year in which he has been before the public he has fought only six amateur battles. Every one of these he has won in less than one round. Sounds like the early history of John L. Sullivan, doesn't it, except that John never wasted punches on mere amateurs? But when a man blows out all his opponents in such decisive style it is a sign that there is good stuff in him, so Delaney, who has been growing fat and listless since Jeff retired in disgust in finding no one able to give him battle, at last hunted up Kauffman and persuaded him to turn professional. Here is the raw material Delaney found to work upon:

Height, 6 feet 1 inch; weight, 190 pounds; reach, 75 inches; chest (normal), 39 1/2 inches; chest (expanded), 43 inches; neck, 17 inches; right biceps, 15 inches; left biceps, 14 1/2 inches; right forearm, 12 1/2 inches; left forearm, 12 1/2 inches; waist, 31 1/2 inches; right thigh, 23 inches; left thigh, 23 inches; right calf, 15 1/2 inches; left calf, 15 1/2 inches; right ankle, 11 inches; left ankle, 11 inches.

Best of all, the boy has abundant confidence in his own ability and a calm mind that cannot be rattled. A pugilist who lacks these qualities had better take a broom and knock out the dust in the street. He is fit for little else.

As the first antagonist for Kauffman in the ring Delaney picked out Harry Foley, a San Francisco lad of 170 pounds who, while not in the first class, has a creditable record. He made a fine showing not long ago with Jack Williams at Philadelphia, and he has held Kid McCoy even in a private bout for fun.

The test was made in the arena of the Hayes Valley A. C., in San Francisco, recently. Foley, the veteran, was nervous and anxious; Kauffman, the novice, was all ice as to the emotions, but fast as lightning with feet and fists.

Foley began by bustling in with a lot of fiddling and feinting. Kauffman smiled and stepped back, refusing to be bluffed into making any hurried moves. As Foley came on the novice sent a short left hook for the body and followed with a light tap of the right that grazed Foley's arm.

Then Kauffman made a bluff with the left for the head and followed with a short right hook that caught Foley on the chin and put him off for five minutes. The fight lasted 1 minute 25 seconds.

Back Field Work Is Important

How to Cover the Territory Behind the Scrimmage--Formation. Catching Kicks and Stopping Runners With Ball.

Back field play combines many spectacular features of football. The term "back field play" means the tactics resorted to in order to protect or "cover" the territory to the rear of the point of scrimmage formation into which punts or drop kicks will probably fall.

Under ordinary circumstances, only one back is kept in the back field. It is his duty to handle all unexpected kicks and to tackle any runner that may get by the other ten players. He must be a sure catcher and tackler and something of a kicker.

This back may find himself on some occasion in the very trying position of being the only man between his goal and a fast opponent. When this is the case the back must, as a general rule, depend upon his own initiative for his line of action.

There are, however, one or two points which any back will do well to keep in mind. It is always a good plan to try to force the runner to take that direction that will bring him nearest to the side line, where it may be possible either to corner him or to force him out of bounds. There is little sense in undertaking to tackle a runner who has the whole field to maneuver in when you can reduce the field by two-thirds.

Another point to be kept in mind is that of never running at full speed at a runner whom it is your intention to tackle, especially when he has an opportunity to side step or dodge you. This side stepping is the easiest thing imaginable, where the tackler bears down on his victim at full speed. It is frequently illustrated when ends overrun a fullback, who by a simple side step eludes them and makes a good run. Instead the back should run fast toward his opponent until he gets within fifteen or twenty yards of him, when he should slow up and get ready to respond to dodging, which can only be done when the back has full control of his body. He should exercise great care not to be fooled by some false motion on the part of the runner. This false motion is usually given with the upper part of the body and can only be detected by keeping a close watch on the hips, which will always give away the real tendency of the body.

Backs frequently loaf while going back to their positions. This is all wrong. They should be either on the line or away back of it, with as little time as possible wasted in getting into either position.

The distance of these backs from the rush line and their relative positions in the back field will depend upon circumstances.

If the kicker is a good one and has the wind at his back they should of course play farther back than if he is a poor kicker and has a stiff wind against him. The thing to be avoided is the danger of playing too far back. This is a very common fault among novices, who dread having the ball kicked over their heads.

BONE INSERTED IN ARM.

Remarkable Operation That Was Performed Over Twenty Years Ago.

At the annual gathering of the Glasgow university club, at Sunderland, recently, Sir William MacEwen, who was concerned in an extraordinary operation upon a child over 20 years ago, introduced the patient, now a full grown man, to the medical men present, and explained the nature of the remarkable case.

The child was born without a bone in the right arm, the boneless limb hanging helpless by its side. The mother, who took the child to the Glasgow infirmary assumed that the arm must necessarily be amputated. But the surgeons determined to make an attempt to save the limb.

Small sections of the bone taken from the tibia, or lower portion of the legs of other patients, who were under treatment for the cure of bowleggedness, were transferred to the boneless arm, there to continue their growth and to become amalgamated--in fact, eventually supplying the place of the missing humerus.

Sir William MacEwen kept in touch with the boy, who at the age of 14 left Glasgow for Sunderland, where he had worked since. The young man bared his arm to the guests present and gave the company abundant proof of the sustained serviceableness of the limb, despite several accidents, including a compound fracture, which had befallen it.

HINDOO DEVOTIONAL ROOM

Wherein Every Member of the Household Engages in Regular Exercises.

In the Hindu household a room is generally set apart for devotional exercises. Here every member of the family, young or old, must sit in silence in the morning and evening to practice concentration, breathing exercises and meditation, writes Swami Abhedananda, in Good Housekeeping. These are considered to be the methods by which one can attain to the ideals of life. The practice of concentration from an early age is extremely helpful for every man and woman. It is the secret of success in business as well as of strength in every avocation of life. All knowledge comes through concentration. It is the one means of acquiring insight into the true nature of things, physical, mental and spiritual. As through the power of concentration a scientist discovers the truths of physical nature, so through the same power the sages and saviors have discovered the highest moral and spiritual laws. Ralph Waldo Emerson voiced the Hindu idea when he said: "The one prudence in life is concentration, the one evil is dissipation."

MUSIC-LOVING INDIANS.

Audience of Arizona Reds Show Appreciation of Refined Productions.

It was in Phoenix, Ariz. I had been visiting the Indian school there, and the director suggested my giving a concert, writes Harold Bauer, in Good Housekeeping. At first I took it for granted that he meant a concert in the town, but when the night arrived I found myself in the presence of a thousand red Indians! When I got over my surprise, I sat down and played the programme through just as I had rearranged it, and I can say that I have seldom played to a more appreciative audience. They were quiet, attentive and absorbed. I felt at once that strange, intuitive bond of sympathy which declares itself on rare occasions between player and listeners. Strange as the statement may sound, I believe those people were as capable of enjoyment of that kind of music as any artist could ask. They may not have been able to define in words the difference between a Bach fugue and a Chopin impromptu, but the appreciation was there.

THE INSTALLMENT PLAN.

Everything in the House Was Very Nice, But It Made Him Hustle.

The newly-married man was showing his bachelor friend round the house. After the inspection, the latter remarked: "Nice library you have."

"Yes," replied the host. "It costs five dollars a month. Expect to own it in ten years."

"Fine-looking piano."

"Yes. Paid the second installment on it yesterday."

"Splendid furniture."

"Almost a quarter is paid off."

"Suppose you don't live to see this through?"

"That's all right. I'm paying insurance on the installment plan."

"Um! Don't you ever take a holiday from this sort of thing?"

"Can't. I would have to make so many payments in advance that I shouldn't have money enough to get away with."

Ghastly Curiosities.

Guanajuato, the ruined city of Mexico, which was destroyed by a "cloudburst," furnishes one of the ghastliest curiosities of the world. In one of the vaults of the Pantheon are preserved many mummies which were dug from the soil. They afford a curious evidence of the natural embalming properties of the earth.

SEACOAST FORTS ARE EXPENSIVE

Many Millions Will Be Necessary to Complete Work Under Way.

EXPERIMENT ON FIRE CONTROL

Cost of Actual Construction of System Will Probably Exceed the Estimate of $4,263,364--Dependencies Are Included in Scheme.

Washington, Nov. 6.--Sixteen million dollars will be necessary to complete the engineering work of fortifications of the seacoasts of the United States under the plans of the Endicott board, according to the report of Brigadier General Alexander Mackenzie, chief of engineers. There has already been appropriated for this purpose $28,693,434. Permanent projects at thirty-one different points have been adopted, and most of them are well under way.

The defense of the great lakes and the St. Lawrence river is under consideration.

The estimate for the completion for the coast fortifications does not contemplate anything more than the projects outlined by the Endicott board. Modern appliances and additional projects which may be adopted by the Taft board, appointed last summer, and the fortifications of the insular possessions, may increase the estimates when additional work is approved by congress.

Over $4,000,000 is needed.

It is estimated that $4,263,364 will be required to put into execution by the engineering department the schemes of the artillery and signal corps for fire control of the seacoast defenses.

"While the general principles of the fire control system have been satisfactorily determined and adopted," the report says, "the actual details, on which costs largely depend, are still in a condition of experimental development by the artillery, and it is anticipated that the cost of actual construction will probably largely exceed the above sum when such development is complete."

It is stated that the reconstruction of the works destroyed by the storm of 1900 at Galveston is nearly completed, but the barracks and quarters and other post buildings are unprotected.

Work has been progressing on the fortifications for the defenses of Manila bay and Subig bay, Cuba, and on the purchase of sites for fortifications in Hawaii.

The total estimates for fortification works under the engineering department for the fiscal year 1907, amount to $11,424,153.

River and Harbor Estimates.

Expenditures on river and harbor improvements in the United States reached $22,383,623. This does not include $2,265,073 under the Mississippi River commission and $97,575 for the enlargement of Governor's Island, N. Y. No estimates are made this year for river and harbor improvements save those provided for under continuing contracts. These amount to $17,456,801, to which is added $35,260 to prevent deposits in New York harbor and $15,000 to be expended under the California debris commission, and also an estimate of $2,000,000 for the Mississippi River commission. Among the estimates for the continuing contracts is an item of $300,000 for the Mississippi river between the Missouri river and St. Paul, and $259,343 for the river between St. Paul and Minneapolis.
